

OSCAR H. JENSEN BADLY INJURED

Postmaster of Station A Is Struck by Street Car and Sustains Two Fractures.

Oscar H. Jensen, postmaster at station A, 702 Seventh East street was struck by a street car shortly before 10 o'clock last night as he was attempting to toss a mail bag into the vestibule for shipment to one of the railway stations. He sustained a fracture of his left leg immediately below the knee, and a fracture of the right collar bone. It is also feared that he is suffering from internal injuries. The accident occurred at a crossing near station A. Jensen had an important sack of mail to send out for shipment and rushed toward the car. With the usual signal of a mail man he attempted to stop it. For some reason the motorman failed to notice the signal. Then taking chances Jensen tried to toss the mail sack into the car vestibule. His leg caught on the step and he was hurled to the ground. After it had traveled half a block the car stopped and the conductor rushed back to make an investigation. He found Jensen unconscious.

Dr. H. N. Mayo was summoned. He made an examination and advised that Jensen immediately be sent to the Holy Cross hospital. In making examination at the hospital Dr. Mayo discovered that the fracture of the leg was serious and it may be difficult to reset the member. Further investigations will be made today when it may be determined if Jensen is suffering from internal injuries.

BLOOD POISON VICTIM WILL BE BURIED TODAY

Otto Christensen, who died Monday night from blood poisoning, resulting from an injury to his right hand sustained through being struck by a pickaxe in the hands of a fellow workman at the Hotel Utah, recently, will be buried today. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Twelfth ward meeting house.

Members of the family stated yesterday that Mr. Christensen did not tell them of having any difficulty with the workman whose pick injured him, and they say they attach no blame to the workman for the unfortunate result.

TEAMSTER DIES SUDDENLY

D. H. Thompson, a teamster residing at the rear of 423 East Seventh South street, was taken to St. Mark's hospital about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, where he died within an hour of intestinal obstruction. Thompson had only been ill about a week, though he had been in poor health during the past two years, having been under the care of the county physician much of the time during this period. He is survived by a wife and two children. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

BUXTON IS CENTER OF CHURCH STORM

Former Salt Lake Pastor Finds Himself in Factional Tangle in Pueblo.

Over in Pueblo, according to information received in this city yesterday, all is not smooth in the affairs of the Broadway Christian church, disagreements, resignations and the canceling of contracts being in order, and all on account of the pastor, the Rev. Albert Buxton, formerly pastor of the Central Christian church of this city.

Dr. Buxton severed his connection with the church in this city in 1908, going from here to Salina, Kan., where he remained until last January.

At that time he took the pastorate of the Broadway Christian church in Pueblo, and immediately found himself the center of a factional war, one faction of the members and of the church board protesting against his appointment. The contest terminated a few days ago. At a heated session of the board of trustees, with accusations flying thick and fast among the members, the contract of Dr. Buxton was canceled.

Following this Dr. W. W. Bulette, one of Pueblo's prominent citizens and an active worker in the affairs of the church, received a Black Hand mislabeled threatening him with violence if he dared show his face in church again. Intimidated, he resigned and the letter turned over to them.

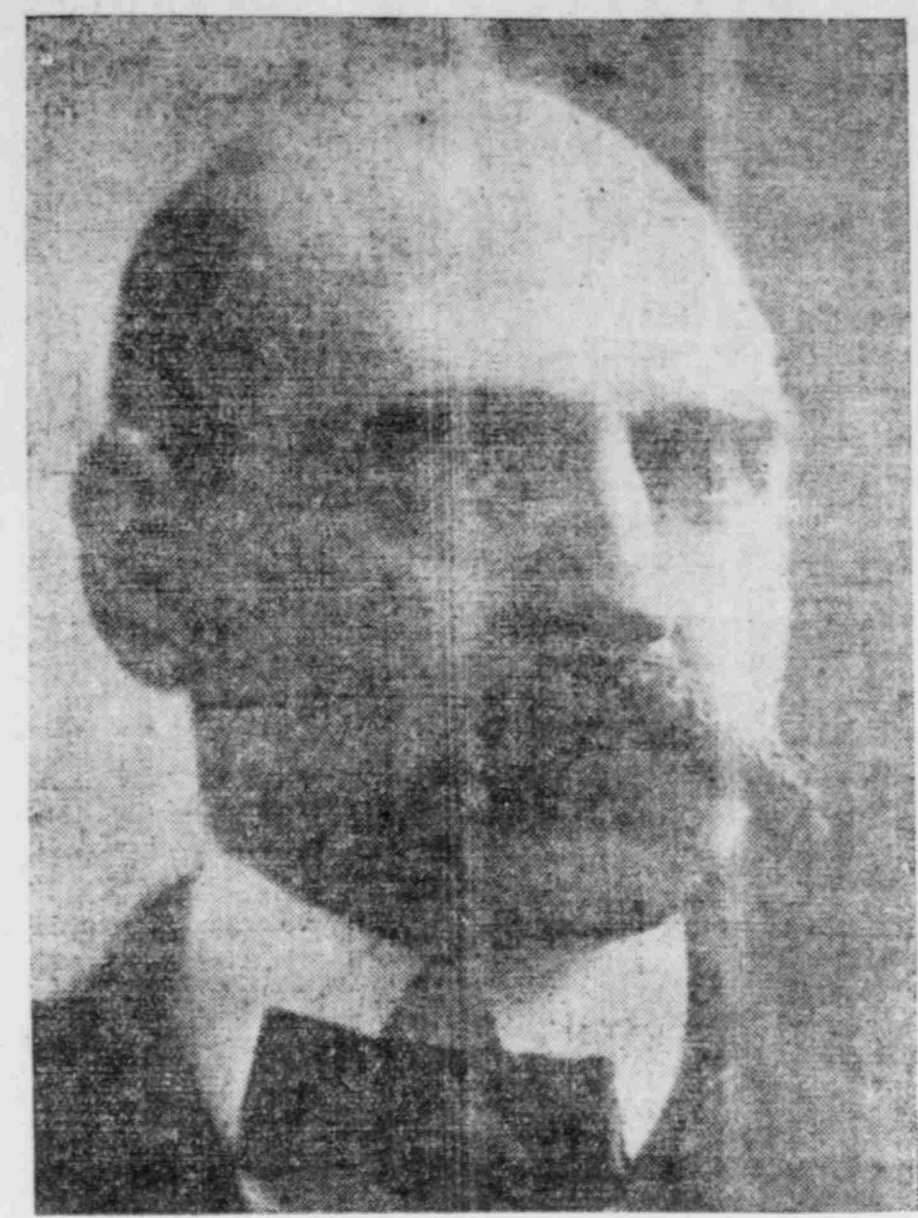

This was followed by another sensational feature, which Dr. Bulette announced from the pulpit of the church that he knew who the writer of the message was, and that he was in the congregation. Bulette followed this by reading his resignation from the governing board of the church. The resignation was not accepted.

In his talk Dr. Bulette said that Dr. Buxton had made a personal accusation against him, but later apologized.

SALT LAKE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA TO REHEARSE

The regular weekly rehearsal of the Salt Lake Symphony orchestra will be held at the theatre this morning, Professor J. J. McClellan conducting. The entire orchestra of fifty members will be present and it is expected that the soloists, Miss Florence Jepperson and Alfred Best, will be present to go through their numbers. One other rehearsal on the morning of the concert, December 29, remains, but the players are in fine shape and only the finishing touches to their work are necessary. ROBERT FORRESTER CLAIMED BY DEATH

ROBERT FORRESTER
Noted Utah Engineer and Geologist, Who Died in Seattle From Cancer of Stomach.

CANCER of the stomach resulted in the death in Seattle Tuesday of Robert Forrester, consulting engineer of the Denver & Rio Grande and geologist for the Utah Fuel company, according to information received in this city yesterday.

Mr. Forrester and his wife were recently in New York, and passed through Salt Lake about ten days ago on their way to the coast. Although it was known that he suffered from stomach trouble, his condition was not thought to be dangerous, and news of his death was a shock to his many friends here.

The death of Mr. Forrester marks the passing of one of Utah's most prominent engineers and coal experts. He figured more prominently in developing the coal industry of the intermountain region than probably any other man.

Popular in club life in the west's social centers, as well as in his own profession, Mr. Forrester had a wide circle of friends. He was a member of the Alta and Commercial clubs of this city, the Denver Athletic club, the P. G. & E. N. Geological society, A. A. A. S. C. N. Scientific society, A. I. M. E. and the M. M. S. A.

An Authority.
Mr. Forrester was the Utah Fuel company's geologist, and all the mines now operated by that and the Pleasant Valley Coal company in Utah and Colorado were opened under his supervision. He was thoroughly familiar with all phases of coal production, of which he made a special study. By reason of his extended experience, natural aptitude and special education, his services were always in demand. He was considered an absolute authority in geology, mining engineering and in the coal industry.

Born of Scottish parents at Balmalcolm, Kilmory, Fife, Scotland, he received his preliminary education in the grade schools of West Calder, and completed his studies at the University of Edinburgh, gaining his first practical knowledge of the coal industry. He came to Utah in December, 1898, and became associated with the Pleasant Valley Coal company. In 1892 he was appointed United States inspector of mines for Utah.

John Volunteers.
Mr. Forrester enlisted in the Second volunteer cavalry when the Spanish-American war broke out in 1898, and was mustered out with the rank of sergeant.

Mr. Forrester was devoted to the study of all the sciences, and added to his technical education, a most thorough and practical training in the mountains of Utah, Colorado and adjoining states.

At the time of his death there was being prepared under his direction a map of Utah embodying the result of many years of field labor performed by him, and this map, if carried to completion, will constitute a splendid monument to his memory and afford an everlasting evidence of his zeal which he showed for the general public's benefit.

One of the best collections of fossils owned by any private citizen, and doubtless the most complete that has been made in Utah, was possessed by Mr. Forrester, and this was collected chiefly through his individual work.

Lover of Books.
He was a lover of books, and possessed a most extensive library, comprising most everything extant on the subject of geology. He was a devoted admirer of the poet, Robert Burns, and gathered several hundred different editions of the celebrated Scotch bard's works, including many of the most valuable in existence. The bibliophiles of America and Europe were given orders to purchase such sets as they might discover, which were not already included in the collection possessed by himself.

He was married twice, the second time to Miss Mae Vimbail of Scofield, Utah. Theirs were no children. He inherited from his father, John Forrester, his interest in geology and mining. He showed a strong tendency to follow that work even from childhood, gaining much pleasure in the inspection of the different hills that surrounded his birthplace.

Personally, Mr. Forrester was of an amiable disposition, always courteous and jovial, and friendly to all. The poor prospector could always obtain an audience with him as readily as could the representative of a large corporation.

tion. He knew all the miners engaged in the various mines with which he was connected, personally, and was their friend and they were his.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by three brothers, John, William and Alexander Forrester. The former is engineer for the Independent Coal and Coke company, William is superintendent of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company, and Alexander is a contractor of Nanaimo, B. C.
